Our network, our strength

We mobilize youth in more than 80 countries, are connected to influential civil society organizations, and have access to decision makers at all levels.

During the period 21-25, we will strengthen current relationships while building relationships with partners in disruptive sectors to explore new ideas.

Common approach to all actions

Citizens and civil society have always been at the heart of the ISW-SWE’s action and are levers for change. In line with societal and geopolitical dynamics, we work with a network of partners, seeking complementarities and multiplication, while strengthening the capacity of local actors (approach «By», «For» and «With»).

Because to this day, 3 out of 10 people do not have access to water even though it is a fundamental right.

Because acting for water means acting for democracy, dignity, social justice, development, and public health.

The ISW-SWE

Founded in 1991, ISW-SWE is a bold, change-accelerating, accessible, engaging, and connecting organization.

We follow a flexible implementation strategy: being where it counts, in a spirit of localizing aid, to influence decision-makers and foster change.

Openness, complementarity, audacity, and commitment characterize our actions.

21-25 STRATEGY

Convinced that water is essential for all aspects of development, the ISW-SWE plays a role of connecting and facilitating with agility and audacity thus contributing to systemic changes for an equitable and sustainable management of natural resources.

To meet the demands of a complex world, we act within flexible frameworks, scaling up locally driven and citizen-based solutions. EMPOWERMENT of stakeholders committed to water is at the heart of our mission.

Our institutional 21-25 strategy presents structuring elements on which the ISW-SWE can rely on to carry out its mission.
During the 21-25 period, we will strengthen current relationships while creating links in disruptive sectors to challenge ourselves with new ideas.

Our economic model is based on program funding and core-funding. Project funding is mostly obtained from traditional donors such as international cooperation agencies or local and territorial governments.

To achieve the objectives of the strategy, it will be necessary to build the loyalty of our supporters, diversify our sources of funding and scale-up the economic model by joining collective projects.

During the 21-25 period, we will strengthen current relationships while creating links in disruptive sectors to challenge ourselves with new ideas.

In all our interventions, we combine facilitation of action and connection of actors, exploration of innovative ideas and a willingness to accelerate to meet the most pressing challenges.
